I am old and blindf# Men point at me as smitten by God's frown, Afflicted and descried of my mind,-Yet I am not east down.

et's Works

I am weak yet strong -I murmuf not that I no longer see; Poor, old, and helpless, I the more beling, Father Baj teme, to Thee!

O merciful One! When then are farthest then Thou art most near When friends pass by-my weakness shun; Thy chariot I hear.

Thy glorious face, Is leaning toward me, and its holv light, Shines in upon my lonely dwelling place; And there is no more night.

On my berded knee I recognize thy purpose, clearly shown-My vision thou hast dimmed that I may see Thyself, Thyself alone.

I have naught to fear: This darkness is the shadow of Thy wing; Beneath, it I am almost sacred-here Can come no evil thing.

Oh! I seem to stand Trembling where feet of mortal ne'er hath been, Wrapped in the radiance of thy sinless land, Which eye bath never seen.

Visions come and go-Shapes of resplendent beauty round me throng-From angel lips I seem to hear the flow Of soft and holy song.

It is nothing now, When heaven is opening on my sightless eyes, When airs from Paradise refresh my brow, The earth in darknes lies.

In a purer clime My being fills with rapture-waves of thought, Roll in upon my spirit-strains sublime; Break over me unsought.

Give me now my lyre! I feel the stirrings of a gift divine, Within this bosom glows unearthly fire Lit by no skill of mine.

Doctors.

If we examine the life of the practicing physician, we find it gilded and shining on the surface; but beneath the spangles, how much pain and hardship! The practicing physician is one of the martyrs of modern society; he drinks the eup of bitterness, and empties it to the dregs. He is under the weight of an commodate TRAVELLERS and HOARDERS dregs. He is under the weight of an immense responsibility, and his reward is but too often injustice and ingratitude. His trials begin at the very gates of his career. He spends his youthful years in the exhausting investigation of Anatomy; the sir of putrefaction, and is daily exposed to all the perils of contagion.

View him in the practice of his difficult art, which he has acquired at the common and is now prepared to accommodate TRAVELLERS and BOARDERS either by day or week. The house is pleasantly situated upon the bank of the river, and is conveniently arranged for the comfort of boarders and travellers. Boarders can be accommodated with neat and comfortable rooms, which are so arranged as to conduct to the health of the persons occupying the same, being large and airy, and the entire house well ventilated—altogether the best house in Portsmouth for hotel purposes.

Stabling of convenient nature has been provided, sufficient for 35 horses. He has also an arrangement with the City Livery Stable by which he can furnish horses, saddles, buggies, ficult art, which he has acquired at the risk of his life! He saves or cures his Baggage conveyed to and from the depot and patient; it is the result of chance, or else river free of charge. it is alleged that it is the effort of na. FALL AND WINTER STOCK OF ture, and nature alone, that cures the DRY GOODS, CLOTHING disease, and that the physician is only useful for form sake. Then, consider the mortifications he has to undergo, when he sees unblushing ignorance wit the success which is denied to his learn. ing and talents, and you will acknowl edge that the trials of the physician are not surpassed in any other business of life. There is another evil the honorable physician has to contend with-a hideous and devouring evil, and seemingly forevermore destined to be an infliction upon humanity. This evil is CARPET SACKS. Quackery, which takes advantage of that deplorable instinct which actually quality, Shawls, Cloaks, Bonnets, Laseeks falsehood, and prefers it to truth. How often do we see the shameless and ingnorant speculator arrest the public attention, and attain fortune, while neglect, obscurity, and poverty are the por tion of the modest practitioner, who in has embraced the profession of medicine Udia Rubber, and Oil Cloth with conscientiousness, and cultivates it with dignity and honor .- Prof. Car-

A NEW EXPERIMENT. Submarine Wrecking Apparatus.

A public experiment of a new submar ine apparatus, was made at the Atlantic Docks, New York, recently, in ruising vessels by means of gas floats.

The floats in this case, were made of oil casks, fastened to the sunken vessel. and open at the bottom. A small apparatus for generating a strong pressure of gas, being connected with the casks by hose, the water was displaced in them in a few minutes, and the vessel was immediately buoyed to the surface smidst the cheers of the spectators. The vessel was a canal boat of about ninety tons, sonk with twelve tons of stone ballast, and the casks were six in number, three on each side, containing in all about two hundred cubic feet, or about six tons of buoyant power. The depth of water was

Of course, the apparatus used for experiment was comparatively imperfect in several respects. Mr. Forman, the inventor, informs us that India rubber camels, of fifty or sixty tons buoyancy, will be used in practice, of course according to the specific weight of cargo to be ment. raised. No displacement of water will then be necessary, as the camels will be sunk and attached in a colapsed state. The smell gas apparatus used on this oclargest ship and cargo, by recharging a number of times. The whole invention is evidently simple, effective, and unexpensive, and while it must prove one of the imes, to the shipping interest, as well as to the inventor, it is one of those things which excite wonder only that they remeined so long unthought of or applied by man. It is understood that a company will soon be formed to carry the invention
